

TransUnion UK - Modern Slavery & Human Trafficking Statement

This statement is made by TransUnion International UK Limited and TransUnion Information Group Limited (“TransUnion UK”) pursuant to Section 54 of the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015 (“the Act”) and sets out the steps taken across TransUnion UK to ensure that slavery, human trafficking and child labour is not taking place in our supply chains or in any part of our business.

Our Business

At TransUnion UK, our business is to help our customers make smart and responsible decisions by providing innovative software, data and information to clients and consumers. We assist people to understand their credit status and to protect themselves against fraudulent activity.

TransUnion UK operates out of its Head Office in Leeds, and offices in London, Cheshire and Europe and is supported by TransUnion’s global capability centres based in South Africa, India and Costa Rica. The TransUnion UK business engages around 1100 people across these locations, the majority of which are based in the UK. TransUnion UK is ultimately owned by TransUnion, a US listed company (NYSE: TRU).

Our Policies

Throughout our organisation, and in our supply chain, TransUnion UK will not tolerate any form of slavery or people trafficking. TransUnion UK therefore operates policies which reflect its commitment to acting ethically and with integrity, implementing procedures to ensure slavery, human trafficking and child labour is not taking place anywhere within our own operations or supply chain.

The following documents reinforce our commitment.

- Our policy regarding anti-trafficking and slavery applies to TransUnion UK and our supply chain relationships. Fundamentally this policy compels TransUnion UK to ensure modern slavery, human trafficking and child labour does not occur in our own operations; and to ensure our suppliers meet the minimum requirements TransUnion UK believes should be demonstrated by them in accordance with the Act.
- Our Supplier Code of Conduct applies to TransUnion UK’s supply chain and requires that our suppliers adhere to our principles and that they encourage and work with their own suppliers to recognise these principles.
- Our policy regarding pay: We pay all employees at least the Real Living Wage rate.
- Our policy regarding equal opportunities and dignity at work commits TransUnion UK to creating a work environment where everyone is treated with dignity and respect. We adopt a zero-tolerance approach to any acts of discrimination, harassment, bullying or victimisation. Any conduct of this type is likely to be considered gross misconduct leading to dismissal.
- Our Whistleblowing Policy under which employees and any person who undertakes to do or perform personally (or otherwise) any work or service for TransUnion UK, regardless of the nature of the contractual relationship between them, can report any and all concerns in confidence and without prejudice.

Our Supply Chain Standards

TransUnion UK operates a continuous improvement approach to our policies, procedures and vigilance to ensure that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking exposure in our supply chain, and it is important that our suppliers represent TransUnion UK with equal integrity towards their own customers, employees and stakeholders.

Our actions to safeguard against human rights abuses in our supply chain include:

- Contractual Terms and Conditions: Under our policy on procurement and supplier management, we undertake appropriate due diligence checks, and through applicable terms and conditions in written contracts we obligate our suppliers to maintain the same standards of business conduct as ourselves.

- Assessment of risk within our supply base: The inherent likelihood of modern slavery and human trafficking occurring in our supply chain is considered remote, with a majority of third party expenditure falling on IT services and equipment, data acquisition, professional services and facilities management. TransUnion UK therefore takes a risk-based approach to reviewing its supply chain arrangements in accordance with the Act. Risk in relation to the Act is considered in terms of the procured products or services, whether the industry or sector has a high prevalence of modern slavery or other labour rights violations and the visibility and accessibility of the supplier’s workforce.
- Reviews of contracted suppliers: We take a risk-based approach to the assessment of our suppliers and engage with them to communicate our expectations and carry out due diligence. For example, a supplier may be expected to:
 - Agree to comply with TransUnion UK’s Supplier Code of Conduct
 - Have a policy on modern slavery that covers the supplier’s operations and also any applicable subcontractors
 - Sign a declaration or contract committing to enforce a policy on modern slavery
 - Have governance procedures to ensure compliance
 - Complete a due diligence questionnaire and provide evidence of supporting documentation and processes

Where any supplier falls short of our expectations remedial actions will be taken. In high risk cases, this could result in the termination of the relationship.

Internal Training and Capability

We expect all employees to be treated fairly, with respect and dignity. All employees are recruited legally and those based in the UK must meet the minimum legal requirements for working in the UK if they do so, as well as relevant background checks. Our code of conduct, which applies to all workers (which includes employees, contractors and agency workers) makes clear the actions and behaviour expected when representing the organisation. TransUnion UK strives to maintain the highest standards of employee conduct and ethical behaviour when operating abroad and managing its supply chain. Inappropriate conduct may be considered gross misconduct and could lead to dismissal.

We also run mandatory annual refresh training on the theme of Third Party Risk Management, which includes specific reference to the obligations of each employee under the Act.

In addition, we host all our policies on our intranet for broad availability and accessibility across the entire TransUnion UK business. All employees are expected to be familiar with these policies so that they understand their obligations.

From time to time, we may also distribute relevant messages to our employees to reinforce our approach.

The Year in Summary

TransUnion UK’s Operations:

We have continued to apply all relevant background checks and fulfil our legal obligations when recruiting new employees and are comfortable that there have been no discrepancies that would indicate consequence in terms of the Act.

TransUnion UK’s Supply Chain:

Through our risk-based approach of assessing new and incumbent suppliers, TransUnion UK continues to experience a remote likelihood of exploitation in our supply chain. TransUnion UK is therefore able to state that within our last financial year there were no requirements to terminate business with any suppliers on the grounds of contravention of the Act.

TransUnion UK has an established Supplier Code of Conduct in place which is published on the TransUnion UK website and is publicly accessible.

The statement also describes the approach adopted by the following group companies:

- TransUnion International Europe Limited (fka Callcredit Marketing Limited),
- TransUnion Solutions Europe Limited (fka Marketshare Partners EMEA, Ltd.),
- Monevo Limited,
- CyberScout Limited, and
- CyberScout Ventures Limited,

(together the “TU Group Companies”).

Whilst the TU Group Companies do not individually meet the turnover threshold that would require them to publish a statement under Section 54 of the Act in their own right, they have elected to adopt this statement on a voluntary basis in order to reflect the Group's approach to managing modern slavery and human trafficking risks throughout its operations and supply chains.
